Last spring Mrs. J. D. Robertson of Leavenworth, who frequently visits Mrs. J. R. Burrow and is well known in Topeka, offered a "Black Beauty" prize to the Leavenworth public schools. Mrs. Robertson is much interested in the work of the Humane society and offered the prize for the purpose of instilling the love of animals in the minds of Leavenworth boys and girls. In the lower grades the teachers told the story to the little ones and in the bigher grades the pupils were required to read the book and recell it in their own words, the pupils were required to read the book and recell it in their own words, the contest being to decide which room showed the most complete assimilation of the story. The prices, two handsome pictures Pharach's Horses and the Chariot Race of Ben Hur, will decorate the room which won them. Mrs. Robertson's has made a similar offer for the reading of Benuilful Los.

Sometimes the brim rolls at one side and droops or sags ever so slightly all around as in the pictured model of taupe colored velvet. This shape has a rather high crown and a medium brim wider in the back than front by one inch. Gravish brown malines form a background from the band of dark brown chenille encircling the crown. A huge bunch of taupe marabout feathers is posed on the left side of the crown and droops well over the edge of the brim.

Typhoid germs incubate very rapidly in warm milk. Prof. Wilson declared that this case was a most dan-gerous state of affairs for Topeka con-sumers, as he recalled an instance where a case of typhoid in the family of a dairyman spread the disease among twenty-seven consumers of the milk from that dairy and seven of these persons died before the epidemic was checked.

Dr. Campbell stated that he had not yet made any formal inspection of the local dairies, but was merely visiting them. He had found so far that when the workings of the new ordinance were fully explained to them the dairymen as a rule were not so strenuo
